

Water & Wetlands

The Lamoille Institute for Educators (LIFE) is a five-day professional development experience for teachers and other educators, taking place at Camp Lamoille in the Ruby Mountains southeast of Elko Nevada, one of the most beautiful spots in Nevada. This year's theme is water and wetlands.

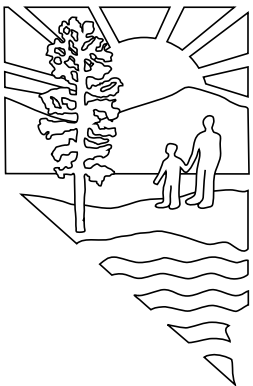

Designed for K-8 teachers and aligned with Nevada state standards in science, math, social studies, English language arts and health, the institute is completely open to non-formal educators and teachers of all grades. Teachers can receive two NDE inservice or two university credits (fee).

- ❖ deepen your own knowledge
- ❖ take away lessons you can use
- ❖ Project WET K-12 Curriculum & Activity Guide
- ❖ support from agencies and organizations
- ❖ classroom and community projects
- ❖ learn about and conserve your watershed
- ❖ instructors are teachers, educators and resource professionals
- ❖ sharing, inspiration, fresh air, fun!

- ❖ building academic skills through real-world applications
- ❖ water basics
- ❖ water resources
- ❖ macroinvertebrates and other water-dependent life
- ❖ ranching and water
- ❖ children's literature
- ❖ night walk and astronomy

$125

Registration fee until May 31 includes materials, instruction, most meals, and rustic lodging. Registration fees after May 31 and on-site will be considerably higher. Team discounts will be available.

July 30 — August 3, 2007

LIFE is sponsored by Nevada Natural Resource Education Council (NNREC) and Nevada Division of Environmental Protection Agency (NDEP). For a full list of sponsors and funders, as well as schedule, instructors, facility, and more, check the LIFE web page at <http://nnrec.org/profdev/life/>. Online registration and mail-in registration forms are available. For additional information, call Dan Allison at 775-997-4937.

